Crazy Fact

Did you know that Numbats were once found all across southern Australia but are now limited to a few patches of bushland in WA? Every year Perth Zoo breeds this threatened species for release into protected areas in the wild.

Snakes and hollow logs, predators and hiding spots

Get together some coins and a dice and play this game with your family. Give each player a coin and put it in box number one. Roll the dice and move forward that number of spaces. If you land on a snake, you have to slide down. If you land on a hollow log, scurry up it. First to reach the finish, wins.

40 Finish	39	38	37	36	35	34	33
32	31	30	29	28	27	26	25
24	23	22	21	20	19	18	17
16	15	14	13	12	11	10	9
8	7	6	5	4	3	2	1 Start

Numbat Knowledge

Did you know the Numbat is Western Australia's State mammal emblem? Find out as much as you can about this marsupial by reading the fact sheet on the Perth Zoo website. Use your new Numbat knowledge to write an acrostic poem. Each line of the poem begins with a letter in the word Numbat.
