Conservation Action

Perth Zoo's Wildlife Conservation Action fundraising program helps tree kangaroos in Papua New Guinea by donating to the Tenkile Conservation Alliance. This group helps people understand the importance of wildlife such as Golden-mantled Tree Kangaroos and encourages them to help conserve them. Meet a Goodfellow's Tree Kangaroo

Name

Kaluli (nicknamed 'Lulu').

(Kaluli is the name of an indigenous tribe in Papua New Guinea.)

Male or female?

Female

When was she born?

Kaluli was born in February 2008.

What does she eat?

Goodfellow's Tree Kangaroos mainly eat leaves and fruits but occasionally eat small birds and eggs. At Perth Zoo, Kaluli eats tree and plant branches (we call this browse). Her keepers also offer her fruit and vegetables in the mornings, with avocado being a favourite!

More about Kaluli

Kaluli is a very friendly and intelligent animal. She enjoys keepers hand feeding her and stroking her back. She enthusiastically participates in training sessions with her keepers. Not only are these sessions mentally stimulating to 'Lulu', but they also help her keepers check her physical condition. If Kaluli has a joey in the future, keepers will be able to monitor the progress of her joey by taking a peek in her pouch!
